She has now joined her husband Martin, her mother Emma Nothe Cain, father Claude Cain Sr, as well as sibling Marion, Claude Jr, James Raymond, and Ron Cain. . She will be buried at Torrington Cemetery beside Martin and near his parents. She leaves behind her siblings Betty, Francis, and Leroy, her children Kathy, Gary and Bryan, granddaughters Cassandra, Alisha, Jamie, Kendall and grandson Martin, and great- grand –daughters Dakota and Andrea.

She was born September 16, 1923 as the second of eight siblings. She earned the family nickname of Trixie because of her toddler habit of finding ways to escape the yard and get into trouble on the farm. She was taught to work hard on the farm to survive the depression years in Primghar, IA. During the war years she worked in a factory while living in a women's boarding house far from home. Dolores earned her teaching certificate while attending high school, continued classes at University of Wyoming, and completed her BA at Mankato University in 1975.

She migrated to Torrington, WY, as a single woman to teach and there married Martin Schaneman in 1950. She continued to teach off and on in Henry, NE, as she raised their children Kathy, Gary, and Bryan. Her husband Martin died in 1971, as well as her closest sister Marion.

She enjoyed entertaining, and kept a well appointed and comfortable home welcome to all family. She enjoyed traveling with family and friends around the United States from Washington DC to Los Angeles and took several trips to travel in Europe. She found camping too similar to growing up on the farm and preferred to stay in motels. She kept well organized and eye opening photo albums of her life

“ I remember Dolores as she is shown with that nice smile on her face on the memorial photo. She and I had a trusted business relationship that became a friendship through the years we knew each other. I always found her to be kind and caring and certainly very proud of her family! I pray the Lord is returning kindnesses to her in even greater abundance!
