“ I enjoyed the song service at Homestead Baptist when Greg led the singing. He wasn't one to be the center of attention, but he served with quiet sincerity. Throughout the years I knew him, I observed the love he had for his family. Carter family, you've been in my thoughts and prayers.

“ Greg was such a kind, hard-working person. Whenever I made deliveries to the warehouse for Correctional Industries, Greg was always right there alongside the inmates helping to unload. I was always so impressed by the way he ran the warehouse. He was always on top of things and so patient and understanding if there was an error on an order or if I was behind getting invoices sent to him. He was such a pleasure to work with. He will be terribly missed.

“ Greg was the kindest, nicest man and such a hard worker. Whenever I made Correctional Industries' deliveries to the warehouse, Greg was always right in there with the inmates loading and unloading. The warehouse ran so smoothly under his direction; he was always on top of the orders and was very patient and understanding whenever I got behind getting invoices to him or if there was an error on his order. It was a pleasure working with him. He will be missed.
