“ In 1965, my sister JoAnn & I (Violet Major) took the Greyhound bus to Torrington to visit Uncle Lloyd & Aunt Myrtle. Our suitcases went on to Salt Lake City, Utah. Aunt Myrt had to find some of her clothes that would fit us. When we finally got our suitcases back they decided we should make a trip to Mount Rushmore, which was so much fun because the only vehicle they had was a pick up truck. On the way there, we all four squeezed into the front seat. On the way back, Aunt Myrt & I decided we would ride in the back of the truck. We got bounced around all over the place & laughed all the way home. Wasn't so funny when we tried to comb out our horribly tangled hair. Even the last time I saw her in 2012 we still had a great time laughing about that adventure! Love you forever, Aunt Myrtle! Violet Major Johnson
